

HOW CAN CULTURE, POLITICS, & BUSINESS WORK TOGETHER IN THE DRIFTLESS?

Friday night talk | 7-9pm, Aug 19th, at the Commons in Viroqua.
Suggested donation $10

How should the political, economic, and cultural life in a region collaborate? What is the right relationship between these three sectors, and how could we work towards their healthy collaboration in Viroqua, the Driftless, and beyond?

HARMONIZING THE WHOLE OF SOCIETY

Saturday workshop | 9am-4pm, Aug 20th, at the Commons in Viroqua.
Suggested donation $30 (includes lunch). Please RSVP

We see society as a hodgepodge of contradictory values and perspectives, but in reality it's a living whole that needs to be harmonized to create a greater good. To do so, we have to learn to work as social artists within its inherent polarities and contradictions. In this workshop, through short presentations, structured conversations and exercises, we will learn why our normal shortsighted fixes won't work in the long run, and what kind of solutions would have real lasting power.

THREEFOLD DRIFTLESS WORKING GROUP MEETING

Sunday meeting | 1-4pm, Aug 21st, at Room 202, Landmark Center, Viroqua. Please RSVP

On Sunday we will launch the Threefold Driftless working group, the purpose of which is to foster work inspired by threefolding in the Driftless region. We will do so through deepening understanding, developing capacities, helping each other think through issues facing our organizations and initiatives, and identifying and implementing strategies to grow threefolding in the region and beyond.

Seth Jordan has worked with organizations and groups in the US and abroad. He recently created a distance learning course in threefolding (educaredo.org/transformingsociety) and writes at thewholesocial.substack.com.

Robert Karbelnikoff is a writer, educator, and consultant whose work is informed by the insights of Rudolf Steiner and social threefolding. You can learn more about Robert on his website at www.robertkarp.net.
